PREFACE.

In presenting to the public the first edition of the Connecticut River Business Directory, the Publisher would express his hope and belief that the information which the work embodies, will meet their approval, and subserve their interests.

Extra efforts have been made in compiling the work to render it as complete and reliable as is compatible with the unavoidable defects accompanying such an undertaking, and of a character that will enhance the business interests of the localities to which it is confined, by pointing out their great models of industrial enterprise.

INTRODUCTION.

The Connecticut River Valley.

The rank that New England occupies in the Union, the influence her institutions have, and are exerting upon the civilization of the present century, are duly appreciated by all intelligent men. Now if any one will scan the map of New England, and trace the course of the Connecticut from its source to its mouth, carefully considering its ramifications—the small tributaries that flow into it—the amount of water-power they furnish, and the business they thus sustain, he will see that the valley of the Connecticut, the main artery of New England trade and enterprise, occupies no very insignificant place in the scale of forces that help to make New England what it is. A brief history of the settlement and the progress of this valley, cannot fail to make an interesting and appropriate introduction to this volume. The Aborigines who inhabited this valley, hunted in the forests that skirted its banks, and caught fish out of its prolific waters, called it the Quonchtacut. It was not known to any civilized people until some years after the English and Dutch, the original settlers of the country, had established themselves at Plymouth and New Netherlands.

In 1631 Wahquimacut, a sachem whose people lived upon the river, made a journey to Plymouth and Boston, and earnestly solicited the Governors of each of the Colonies established there, to send men to make settlements upon the Connecticut river. He referred particularly to the exceeding fruitfulness of the country, and promised the English, if they would make a settlement there, that he "would supply them with corn annually, and give them eighty beaver skins." He suggested that two men might be sent in advance to view the country; and had this invitation been accepted it might have prevented the claim of the Dutch from New Netherlands, who subsequently came up the river and built a fort at Hartford, at a place now called Dutch Point. Had this been done the controversy that afterward arose between the settlers of these separate colonies in consequence of the claim which the Dutch thus established, might perhaps have been avoided, and an extensive trade, we mean extensive for the time, might, no doubt, have been opened with the Indians in hemp, furs and deer-skins. But the Governor of Massachusetts paid no attention to the proposal, though he wisely treated the sachem courteously and generously. The Governor of Plymouth, however, Mr. Winslow, judged the subject to be worthy of more attention, and he accordingly, soon after, went to Connecticut "and discovered the river and the adjacent parts." The Commissioners of the United Colonies, in their declaration against the Dutch in 1653, said: "Mr. Winslow, one of the Commissioners for Plymouth, discovered the Fresh river when the Dutch had neither trading house nor any pretense to a foot of land there."* It soon after appeared that the earnestness with which the Indian sachem solicited the English to settle upon the river, originated in the distressed state of the river Indians, who were being overpowered by the Pequots. The Indian king imagined that if he could persuade the English to make settlements along the river, they would defend him against his too powerful enemies.† The next year (1632,) the people of Plymouth made new discoveries on the river, and founded a place at Windsor, which was subsequently settled, though the first settled town on the river was Wethersfield, four miles below Hartford, which was visited by an exploring party from Watertown, who erected a few huts in 1634–5.

The Dutch rested their claim to the discovery of the river and the ownership of its lands, on the fact that the seacoast adjacent to its mouth, with a portion of the river itself, were first explored by them; the counter claim of the English was based on a patent of Connecticut issued by Robert, Earl of Warwick, President of the Council of Plymouth, Lord Say and Seal, Lord Brooke, Sir Richard Saltonstall, and their associates, "embracing all that part of New England in America, extending in breadth 120 miles, as the coast lieth, from the Narragansett River toward Virginia, and in longitude from the Western Ocean to the North Sea," meaning thereby from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean. The Dutch retained possession of their trading house at Dutch Point for some time after Hartford was settled, but finally sold out to the English and vacated. There are many facts of historical interest relative to these first settlements, but we cannot, of course, notice them in detail here, and besides, they are mostly familiar to those acquainted with the early history of New England.

*Records of the United Colonies.
†Winthrop's Journal.

The Connecticut has its source "in that grand ridge of mountains" which divides the waters of New England and Canada, and extends northeasterly to the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The source of its highest branch is in about forty-five degrees and a half of north latitude. Where it enters New England it is ten rods in breadth, and in running sixty miles further it becomes twenty-four rods wide. The country through which it passes is gradually descending from north to south, and its course corresponds therewith. Its wide and deep valley separates not only two mountain ridges, but two solid masses of highland. The level of its broad bed is broken by a series of terraces. In the first quarter of its course it has a rapid fall of twelve hundred feet, this being from its source to the mouth of the Passumpsic River, on the parallel of the White Mountains, where its surface is but four hundred feet above the sea, two hundred miles distant. From that point, in eighty miles, to the long and flat bottom between Windsor and Bellows Falls, in Vermont, it descends only one hundred feet; thence it sinks one hundred and sixty feet to the plains of Deerfield; and at Springfield, eighty miles above its mouth, it is but forty feet above the ocean. It runs with a gentle flow, as its course is, between three and four hundred miles. Its breadth through Connecticut, this portion only being navigable for large vessels, varies from one hundred rods to half a mile, and near its mouth, to a mile, and more. In the spring of the year high floods are common, reaching from twenty to twenty-five feet above low water mark, and a vast tract of country is often inundated, as the banks of the river are generally low. Much of the land flooded is meadow land, which by this process is irrigated by natural means, and is thus fertilized to a considerable extent. One feature about these floods, or "freshets," as the river people invariably term them, is a constant changing of the channel in many places. Between Hartford and Middletown, localities can be pointed out where the bed of the river formerly was, which are now pasture lots or marshes. The banks continually wash away, and the tendency of the floods, which are frequently aggravated by walls of ice, is to fill up certain spots in the channel where the current is swift, so that dredging machines are necessarily employed to remove the accumulations of sand or other deposits, so that navigation may not be obstructed.

We have said that the valley of the Connecticut separates not only two mountain ridges, but two solid masses of highland. To regard these highlands, which form so important a feature of New England geography, as simply two ranges of hills, would not be to conceive of them correctly. They are vast swells of land, of an average elevation of a thousand feet above the level of the sea, each with a width of forty or fifty miles, from which as from a base, mountains rise in chains or isolated groups, to an altitude of several thousand feet more. In structure the two belts are unlike. The western system, which bears the general name of the Green Mountains, is composed of two principal chains, more or less continuous, covered, like several shorter ones which run along them, with the forest and herbage to which they owe their name. Between these a longitudinal valley can be traced, though with some interruption, from Connecticut to Vermont. The space between these mountain ranges and the Connecticut, is mostly occupied by a rugged table-land, measuring in height from a thousand to fifteen hundred feet. In Massachusetts this is deeply furrowed by transverse valleys, through which torrents like the Westfield and Deerfield Rivers descend to the Connecticut. In Vermont both heights and streams assume a more gentle character. From a height of less than a thousand feet in Connecticut, the mountains rise to an average of twenty-five hundred feet in Massachusetts, and forty-four hundred feet in Vermont and New Hampshire. In Connecticut the bottom of the valley is from five hundred to seven hundred feet above the level of the sea; in southern Massachusetts it is eight hundred feet; it rises thence two hundred feet to Pittsfield, and one hundred more to the foot of Greylock Mountain, whence it declines to the bed of the Housatonic in one direction, and to an average height of a little more than five hundred feet in Vermont in the other.

The commerce of the river is confined to that portion lying between Hartford and its mouth, a distance of fifty miles. Small craft, flat-bottomed affairs, more useful than ornamental, go as far as Springfield, about thirty miles above Hartford, though few go above Windsor Locks, an intermediate point. They carry freight in small quantities. The navigation of the river for practical purposes, closes at Hartford, and to this place vessels drawing eight and nine feet of water can readily pass except in cases of unusual drought. A fine line of steamers connects the head of navigation with New York, the largest boat of the line being of twenty-two hundred tons burthen. A large proportion of the vessels engaged in river traffic, are employed in freighting stone from the extensive free-stone quarries at Portland, opposite Middletown, twenty miles below Hartford, and these vessels on their return trips from various commercial points on the river, do a good business in the conveyance of miscellaneous freight. At Essex, Deep River, East Haddam, Higganum, Middle Haddam, Middletown, Portland and Hartford, there are ship-yards, from which many vessels for the coasting trade are yearly launched.

This navigable portion of the river affords delightful scenery throughout its whole distance. It is not so bold nor so sharp in its outlines as the scenery of the Hudson, yet in variety and picturesqueness it is grandly superior to much that appears on that river, and the traveler cannot fail to enjoy the many natural charms that rise on every hand as he passes along the stream. At a point called the Straits, two miles below Middletown, a mountainous range is broken by the sweep of the river, and the banks on either side tower aloft for a distance of more than a mile, forming a beautiful stretch of bold river scenery; but the general features of the country through which the river passes, have none of the bold characteristics seen at this particular point. For the most part, a receding valley is formed, with fine distances opening up well-cleared farms, handsome slopes through diverging valleys, and mountain ranges in the extreme view; though all along the variety is so great that whatever there might be of monotony, is broken in the continual production of some new scene "fairer than the rest." Through this fifty miles of country, watered by the Connecticut, one can see more of a general character of the topography of a considerable portion of the valley in a short time than of any other portion, because he may pass through it by daylight on a steamer, and obtain a view of the whole landscape at every turn.

Above Hartford, to the sources of the Connecticut, there are many attractions of an historical nature, which the local resident can point out to the cosmopolitan. In colonial days, the Indians kept close to the river, because it afforded good grounds for hunting and fishing, and it was in the settlements established by the English along its banks, where most of the horrible deeds of atrocity were committed by the savage warriors. The Indian wars in Massachusetts, the most terrible of any, left many traces which are pointed to to-day, with great local interest, in all the country along the valley where the early settlers suffered and died in their efforts to resist the deadly hatred of the red men. Though familiar to almost every school-boy, one story connected with the localities we have alluded to, may serve to show the character of some of the incidents which have been handed down to the present time from the days of bloody massacres. We quote from Stiles' History of the Judges—the Regicides—Goffe and Whalley: "While Goffe was secreted in Hadley, in 1675, the Indians attacked the town while the inhabitants were at public worship. The people were thrown into the utmost confusion, till Goffe, entirely unknown to them, white with age, of a venerable and commanding aspect, and in an unusual dress, suddenly presented himself among them, encouraging the affrighted inhabitants, and put himself at their head, and by his military skill, led them on to an immediate victory. After the dispersion of the enemy he instantly disappeared. The wondering inhabitants, while ignorant whence he came and where he retired, imagined him to be an angel sent for their deliverance." It was into this section of country that Philip, sachem of the Wampanoags, and for a long time the terror of New England, fled from Rhode Island, and excited hostilities against the whites. All of our New England histories contain more or less graphic accounts of the sanguinary struggle which followed.

The Connecticut itself, above its navigable head, waters a fertile section, through which prosperous towns are scattered, with an abundant promise of future growth. At Holyoke there is an extensive water-power, owned chiefly by Connecticut capitalists, who made an early investment, and who have reaped already a considerable pecuniary harvest from it. At other points there are privileges on a smaller scale, but there is hardly any doubt that in the course of time, very much of the upper Connecticut will be utilized to the development of manufacturing interests. The natural scenery of this portion of the valley is in very many parts unsurpassed. In its rugged, mountainous features, it is grandly superior, and is attracting the attention of tourists more and more every year.

Of the population of this fertile valley it seems superfluous to say that it is composed of a people distinguished for their habits of industry and their moral culture. Some of the finest farms in New England lie along the Connecticut, and upon these toil many of New England's sons, whose frugality enables them to reap from their soil abundant harvests, that give to the New England farmer independence and competence. The sturdy self-reliance, and indefatigable energy, which are peculiar to New England character, are no more thoroughly marked and made a sterling part of the composition of communities, than through this flourishing valley. The people seem to draw to themselves the chief characteristics of the climate, being, as we may say, moderate, rather than excessive or hasty, standing midway between the torrid or impulsive, and the frigid or cold-blooded classes to be found in other portions of our continent.

It is, perhaps, not generally known, that within the past two or three years the tide of summer travel has been diverted from other sections, and has found its way, to a large extent, to New England, and particularly to the Connecticut valley. Thousands of delighted tourists no longer crave the salt breezes of the ocean strand, or seek recreation in tedious voyages across the Atlantic, but going up this valley, find the bracing air of New England more congenial to health, and the attractions of the country ample to supply the most feverish desire for "something new." Sojourning all over our territory we shall find these contented tourists—on quiet farms, in pleasant villages, by river and lake, stretching from Long Island Sound up to the highest point of "the Green Mountain State."

This region, to-day, is filled with the hum of industry; its population and wealth are rapidly increasing; its people are growing in intelligence and refinement; invention and art are daily adding to its stock of utilities, and to its refining and chastening influences; so that in a generation, or a century more, if the inhabitants are left undisturbed by those dissensions that often destroy and blight the prospects of the happiest people, this valley will be unsurpassed in everything that can contribute to the comfort of a great people, by any other locality of equal extent on the surface of the globe.

CONN. RIVER BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

SAYBROOK, Town of Middlesex County, Connecticut, is situated on the west bank and at the mouth of the river, bordering on Long Island Sound. Distance from Hartford 45 miles, and from New London 17 miles.

The principal street runs nearly north and south, and upon it the dwellings and stores are mostly located. Its situation on the sound makes it an excellent summer resort. Shad fishing is probably carried on more extensively here than at any other place on the river.

Steamboats plying between New York and Hartford, stop here. The town is also accessible by the Shore Line Railroad.

PORTLAND, Middlesex County, Connecticut, is situated on the east bank of the river, nearly opposite Middletown, with which it communicates by steam Ferry, 15 miles from Hartford and 34 miles from Long Island Sound.

In this town, upon the river bank, are the noted Portland Free-stone Quarries. The stone is transported long distances, and used principally for building purposes, being of superior quality, soft and easily worked, and is prized for its color and durability, which is improved by time. The town contains about 4000 inhabitants.

HARTFORD, Hartford County, Connecticut, is situated on the west bank of the Connecticut River, 50 miles from its mouth, and distant from New York, 110 miles, New Haven 36 miles, Springfield, Mass., 26 miles, Boston 124 miles, Montreal, Canada, 336 miles, Providence, R. I., 90 miles, Albany 126, in Latitude 41 deg., 45 min., 59 sec., and Longitude 4 deg., 15 min., east from Washington. It may not be amiss in this book to give a brief historical sketch of the place. In 1633, on the point of land now known as "Dutch Point," at the junction of the Connecticut and Park rivers, the Dutch erected a Fort, which they named the "Home of Hope." Two years afterwards a settlement was begun by a company of settlers from Newtown, (now Cambridge,) Dorchester and Watertown, Mass.

Its Indian name was "Suckiaug." The white settlers first called it Newtown, but in 1636 formally named it Hartford, after Hartford, now called Hertford, in Hertfordshire, England, and during this year (1635) was held the first Town Meeting.

In 1654, by an act of the General Court of Connecticut, the Dutch were compelled to leave, and consequently the whole colony came entirely into the hands of the English. The first church was erected here in 1638, also a school was established the same year.

KELLOGG & BULKELEY, 245 Main St., Hartford, Lithographers. Checks, Drafts, Certificates of Stock, &c., Checks Stamped and Numbered, Lithographic work of every variety executed in the best style.

The first written Constitution ever formed in America, was here written and finished by five men, viz.: Ludlow, Haynes, Wolcott, Hopkins and Hooker, in the year 1639. In 1640 a House of Correction was established. The General Court, in the year 1644, ordered the establishment of an Inn, which in after years became historically associated with Col. Wadsworth and the famous "Charter," which he concealed in the hollow of an old oak. The tree was carefully preserved, and remained standing till within a few years.

The first Printing Office here was started in the year 1764, by Thomas Green, who commenced the publication of the Connecticut Courant. The act of incorporating the city was performed in the year 1784. Eight years afterwards the Hartford Bank and Hartford Charitable Society were organized.

The shipping interests of Hartford are quite large, there being 5 Steamboats, regularly plying between this point and New York, two river steamers, two lines of steam freight packets to Albany, Philadelphia and Baltimore, and regular lines of packets to foreign and domestic ports. Hartford is the leading Insurance city in the United States, there being no less than 22 companies in successful operation, consisting of Fire, Life, Accident, Live Stock, Steam Boiler, &c. Several more are chartered this season, which will soon be actively working. Among the large manufactories in the city may be mentioned Colt's Patent Fire Arms Manufacturing Co., with a capital of $1,000,000, and owning the largest and finest shop of the kind in the country; Sharps' Rifle Manufacturing Co., Cheney Brothers, Silk Manufacturers, Case, Lockwood & Co., Printers, Weed Sewing Machine Company, Woodruff & Beach Iron Works, Phœnix Iron Works, Bullard & Parsons, Machinists, with many others of lesser magnitude. There are 12 banks of issue in the city, with an aggregate capital of about $8,000,000, also 3 Savings Banks. The city has 25 churches, among which number are some of the finest church edifices in the country. The Park, bounded on the east, north and west by Park River, and containing 46 acres, is an ornament to the city. Colt's Dyke, one of the greatest improvements in the city, is 8,698 feet long, from 40 to 50 wide at the top, and cost about $80,000. This dyke encloses 123 acres of some of the most valuable land in the city.

The Hartford and Wethersfield Horse Railroad extends from Spring Grove Cemetery through Main, State and Asylum streets to Wethersfield, running cars past a given point every seven minutes. Hartford has a complete system of water works. Among the many public institutions in Hartford, may be mentioned the Hartford Hospital, built of Portland stone, which, exclusive of recent additions, cost about $50,000. Also the Connecticut Retreat for the Insane, situated on an elevation commanding a view of the city and meadow. The American Asylum for the Deaf and Dumb, was incorporated in the year 1816, and is the oldest institution of its kind in the country. The Wadsworth Atheneum is a granite building, 100 feet in length, 80 feet in depth. This building is occupied by the Young Men's Institute, Watkinson Library and Connecticut Historical Society. The growth of Hartford has been very rapid, as shown by census taken at different times. In the year 1800 the whole number of inhabitants was only about 5,000. At the present time the population is estimated at 45,000.

HISTORICAL SKETCH.

Though Hartford has been settled long,
Two hundred years ago,
Yet there are many points of interest
Of which strangers do not know.

But chief amongst them all
Is the Hat Store kept by Bunce;
No one will ere forget it
If they buy their goods there once.

You'll there find Hats and Caps,
Of every grade and style,
And all at lowest prices,
Which we know will make you smile.

Gloves, Collars and Suspenders,
They always there do keep,
With lots of Fancy Neckties,
And Scarfs so trim and neat.

In fact, all sorts of things
Which Gent's now need to wear,
(Except Coats, Vests and Pantaloons,)
You'll always find them there.

For the Ladies (gentle creatures,)
There are styles of Furs so nice,
That when they hear the prices
They'll buy them in a trice.

Now all who visit Hartford,
For pleasure or for show,

CAPITAL, - - - - - - - - $500,000.

With a Surplus Securely Invested. CHARTER PERPETUAL.

EDWARD W. PARSONS, President. THOMAS W. RUSSELL, Secretary.
General E. W. WHITAKER, General Agent for Company.

ADVANTAGES PRESENTED BY THIS COMPANY.

SECURITY is the primary consideration in Life Insurance. This Company offers the security of a larger capital than ANY OTHER LIFE COMPANY IN THIS COUNTRY.

Its ratio of assets to liabilities (the real test of solvency,) is larger than that of any other Company in the United States. See Annual Report of Mass. Ins. Commissioner for January, 1867.

Its managers have had a long experience in all the departments of Life Insurance; and the Company is under the direction of men well known for their INTEGRITY AND PRUDENT MANAGEMENT.

The Company offers insurance upon the Stock Plan at the lowest rates consistent with security. This plan is increasingly popular.

If the mutual system is preferred, the Company offers the security of its large capital, and when the premium is $50, or upwards, will accept a note for 40 per cent. if desired.

The Hartford Courant,

(Daily and Weekly,) and the DAILY EVENING PRESS.

THE COURANT is the oldest newspaper of prominence in the United States, and with less than half-a-dozen exceptions, the oldest printed in the English language. It was founded in October, 1764, and has been published uninterruptedly, under the same title, ever since.

THE DAILY COURANT,

issued every morning except Sundays, is the

LARGEST DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND,

and the only one which is regularly printed in the modern metropolitan quarto form. No effort or expense is spared to give it the character of a first class journal. It is published at $8.00 a year, and has a circulation second to but one provincial Eastern daily.

THE EVENING PRESS,

is issued in two editions every afternoon, and is a distinct sheet from THE COURANT, possessing its own staff of writers, and containing a full resume of the news, together with a large variety of interesting miscellany. Its price is $7.00 yearly.

THE CONNECTICUT COURANT, is a very large weekly, carefully made up of the most valuable matter appearing in the two dailies, and accompanied every other week by an eight paged literary supplement. Its circulation now approaches 10,000 copies, extending to all parts of the country, and making it one of the best advertising mediums in New England. Its terms are $2.50 a year, or to Clubs $2.00.

Published by GEO. S. HUBBARD.

BERNARD PETERS, Editor.

DURING the past year THE POST has passed under its present management. It has received the highest commendations from the public and the press, and, as the result, IT HAS MORE THAN DOUBLED ITS CIRCULATION. It has a larger country circulation than any other Hartford daily, and has made such important gains in the city, that it is now ONE OF THE BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUMS IN THE CITY.

In the management of the paper no pains are spared to make it acceptable to the family circle. The news of the day is carefully condensed and promptly given. Miscellaneous departments are kept up, in which a full variety of interesting items appear. Its editorial pages keep pace with the events of the day. Foreign and domestic matters are discussed with candor. Politically it does not follow the blind lead of any party, though advocating fearlessly the cause of the Union, it will always aim to cultivate amity and harmony on sound principles throughout the length and breadth of the land. If a truth is to be spoken, it will give it utterance boldly, not hesitating from motives of policy or expediency, till the truth itself becomes "flat, stale and unprofitable." It will seek to be in advance on all public questions, and will criticise men and measures independent of party considerations.

THE WEEKLY POST,

This a large sized four paged paper, issued every Thursday, and is crowded with every variety of interesting selected and original matter. It is the purpose of the proprietors to admit but a limited amount of advertising; this enables them to devote almost the entire space of the paper to reading matter. It contains more reading matter and is furnished to subscribers at a lower rate than any other paper in the State.

SPRINGFIELD, HAMPDEN COUNTY, MASSACHUSETTS, situated on the east bank of the Connecticut River, 76 miles from its mouth, 134 from New York, 100 from Boston, from Montreal Canada, 310 miles, Albany 100 miles, is the second of size of the cities in the Connnecticut Valley, and contains about 28,000 inhabitants, which is double its population as estimated by the census of 1860. This rapid increase of numbers proprotionately enhanced the wealth and beauty of the city as is seen by the large number of public buildings, business blocks, and tenement houses erected during the last few years, still the demand for tenements exceeds the supply. Springfield is the oldest town in Massachusetts, on the Connecticut River, having been settled in 1636, by a company from Roxbury. It is also the shire town of Hampden county, and was incorporated February 20th, 1812.

Springfield is the great Railway centre of New England, and it being the junction of the Western, Hartford, New Haven & Springfield and Conn. River Railroads. This is the terminus of the Hartford and New Haven Road, which extends a distance of 62 miles. The Conn. River Road, 50 miles in length, extending up the river valley, terminating in South Vernon, at the state line between Vermont and Massachusettss, and connects with the Vermont and Massachusetts Railroad from Fitchburg, Boston and Northern Vermont. The Western Railroad connecting at Worcester with the Boston and Worcester Railroad, passes west through the city and terminates at Albany, N. Y., is about 160 miles in length. Here are located the repair shops of the Western and Conn. River railroads, giving employment to several hundred men. The extensive manufactory of the Norwalk Iron Works, making the Earl patent Steam Pump, is situated here. The United States Armory, established here in 1795, has propably done more towards building the city than any other one cause. Previous to 1860, the hands employed in the Armory did not exceed 500, but during the war the number increased to 2,992. At the present time about 1000 men are employed. The number of muskets made in the month of April, 1864, was 26,000. Armory square which contains a portion of the workshops, and the residence of the commandant, paymaster, master armorer and other officers, is situated on the high grounds in the eastern portion of the city. A number of the armory buildings, known as the water shops, are situated one mile south of armory square where is done the heavy work of rolling the barrels, trip hammer and drop work, &c. The armory grounds are surrounded with an iron fence 8 feet high. The arsenal building, 3 stories high will hold 300,000 guns. The view from the tower is very fine and in a clear day, one can see twelve miles down the river.

Hampden Park, inaugurated September 29th, 1857, was purchased and improved by the Hampden County Agricultural Society, for an exhibition ground, at a cost of about $32,000, is beautifully situated on the river bank, in the northwestern portion of the city. These grounds, containing about 60 acres, are very level and are enclosed on the river side by a levee, and on the other by a substantial fence. The grounds comprise a mile and half mile race track, graded and kept in good condition, also buildings for sheltering stock during Agricultural and Horse fairs.

Springfield contains many excellent Hotels.

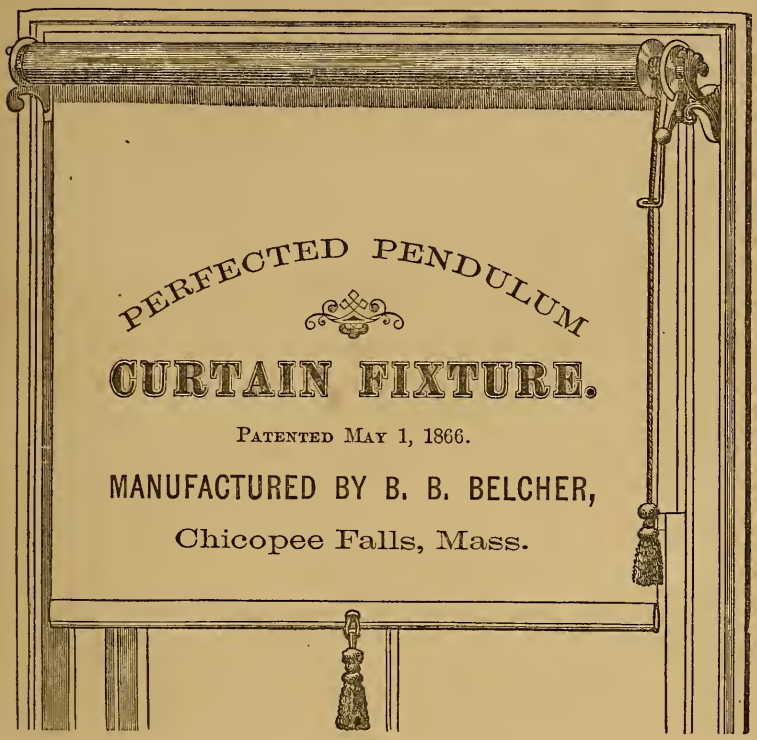
Address GEORGE S. TAYLOR, Agent,
CHICOPEE FALLS, MASS.



THE Subscriber begs to call the attention of his former patrons, and the million others who use and are to use Curtain Fixtures, to his recently PERFECTED AND PATENTED PENDULUM FIXTURE. The original White's Pendulum Fixture, that I extensively manufactured and sold some years since, is a good Fixture, but the one I now offer is the NE PLUS ULTRA. The two objections to that Fixture were, that it was noisy and sometimes failed to hold the Curtain from running down. The PERFECTED is operated with but little noise, and is sure to hold the Curtain permanently in place at any desired height. It is neat and tasty in design, is manufactured of the best of material and in a thorough and workmanlike manner. It is durable and easily put up for use. A moment's inspection will make its superiority apparent to every observer.

HOLYOKE, MASS., located on the west bank of the Connecticut river, 8 miles north of Springfield, and distant from New York 144 miles. Here in October, 1849, a dam was constructed across the river, 1017 feet in length, and 30 feet high, making the largest water power in New England. There are three canals along which are located the factories, and so situated that the water is used three times over. This water power is owned by the Holyoke Water Power Company, with a capital of $350,000. Here are a large number of Manufacturing Companies and corporations, representing some 15 millions of dollars, employed in manufacturing Cottons, Woolens, Writing Paper, Paper Collar Paper, Manilla Paper, Envelopes, Balmoral Skirts, Cotton Warps, Cotton Thread, Machinery, &c.

Holyoke is pleasantly situated, and at present contains about 7,000 inhabitants.

HADLEY, Hampshire County, Massachusetts, is situated on the east bank of the Connecticut River, about 15 miles north of Springfield, Mass., and comprises the villages of South Hadley, North Hadley and Hockanum. Agriculture is the chief business of the town. The "Hadley Meadows" comprise several thousand acres, and much of it the finest in the whole river valley. Broom Corn and Tobacco are raised very extensively. A large business is done in manufacturing brooms and brushes.

Hadley is one of the oldest towns on the river, it having been settled as early as 1650. West street is one of the finest streets any where to be found, it being nearly one mile long and 17 rods wide. At South Hadley Falls, are large manufactories of Ginghams and Paper.

EASTHAMPTON, MASS., is a pleasant and thriving town, with a population of about 3000, beautifully situated in the valley, just north of and at the foot of Mt. Tom, four and one-half miles south-west of Northampton, and is reached by cars on the New Haven and Northamption Railway, which passes through this town.

Easthampton is noted for its large manufactories of Buttons, Vulcanized Rubber, Elastic Suspenders, Rubber Thread and Cotton Yarns, &c., &c.

The prosperity of Easthampton, to a large extent, is due to the enterprise and energy of Hon. Samuel Williston, who is largely interested in several large manufactories.

Williston Seminary, which is located here, was founded by the munificence of Hon. Samuel Williston. It was first opened for the reception of pupils in Dec., 1841, and has since enjoyed uninterupted prosperity. Additions have been made from time to time by the founder, to its buildings, apparatus and funds, until the whole amount of donations, including $50,000 for the new Dormitory recently completed, has reached the sum of $225,000.

G. M. FILLEBROWN, Prop.

NORTHAMPTON, MASS., The shire town of Hampshire County, on the west bank of the Connecticut River, 18 miles above Springfield, and 76 miles north of New Haven. It is located on the rising ground ½ mile west of the river, giving a complete view of Mts. Holyoke and Tom and Hadley Meadows. It is irregularly laid out; the winding avenues and crooked streets lined with Elms and Maples, giving it an inviting and picturesque appearance, and making it one of the pleasantest towns in the river valley.

The first settlers numbering 21 persons, came from Springfield and Windsor, and located here in 1654. Town officers were chosen in 1655, though there is no record of any act of incorporation. The town is supposed to have been named after Northampton in England, though that is somewhat doubtful.

The first church was erected in 1655, it was 26 feet long by 18 wide, built of sawed timber, and cost 14 pounds sterling. At present there are six Protestant societies and one Roman Catholic. Northampton has long been noted for the excellence of its Public Schools, and at the present time contains several large and commodious school buildings, well supplied with competent teachers in all departments.

Its stores are large and numerous and well filled with large stocks of seasonable goods, and its business men are alive to the wants of the public, many of them having had long years of experience in this place. There are three good Hotels here, well kept by live Landlords, who study to provide for the comfort and convenience of their guests. The travelling public and all those who wish to find a pleasant summer resort are recommended to try the Round Hill Hotel and Water Cure, or the Warner House, Main Street.

The Florence Sewing Machines which are so extensively used the world over, are manufactured in the beautiful village of Florence in this township. Here are employed several hundred hands in making what is acknowledged to be the best Sewing Machine now in use. The machine makes four distinct stitches, Lock, Knot, Double Lock, and Double Knot, either of which are much stronger, more durable and elastic than that made by many other machines. It has become so popular that it has been nearly impossible to fill the large orders for it.

ROUND HILL HOTEL AND MOTORPATHIC WATER CURE.

The Round Hill Hotel and Water Cure, a Scientific Institution, free from the Ultraism of the day at NORTHAMPTON, MASS.

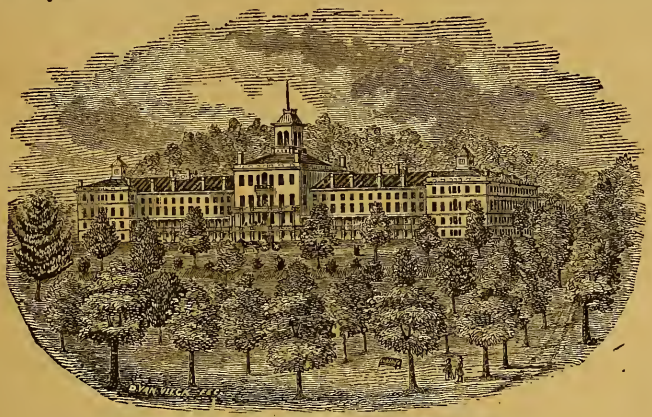
The tables are spread with the luxuries of the season. The buildings are on a high hill, in a grove of 50 acres, overlooking one of the finest Landscapes in the world. Both are open the year around.



THE PARTIALLY INSANE, OPIUM-EATERS AND STIMULUS-TAKERS,

The unhappy sufferers dependent upon such means of keeping up their spirits and strength, or for warding off mental or physical pain or oppression, who desire to break up habits so ruinous to health and mental well-being, will do so with comparative ease under the vitalizing and health-sustaining effects of Motorpathy, mountain air, and cold and hot baths.

TO INVALID GENTLEMEN.

The Motorpathic Treatment, a system of saturninating vitalization, aided in particular cases by a few celebrated vegetable alteratives and a discriminating use of medicated hot and cold baths, speedily removes most diseases. This treatment is of especial merit in breaking up those insidious and dangerous diseases dependent upon impurities of the blood, and of scrofula in the system. In the cure of nervousness, sleeplessness, debilitating dreams, loss of memory, dyspepsia, bronchitis, liver complaint, rheumatism and gout, its success is unparalleled.

TO PHYSICIANS AND LADIES.

Dr. Halsted, in the course of thirty years practice, has been able to discover the adaptation of certain chemical agents, which act in harmony with the natual functions of special organs, remedying their diseased condition, and, motorphatically used, vitalizing them into healthy and vigorous action; thereby removing sterility, curing prolapsus uteri and other functional derangements, with ease and certainity, and without using any of the appliances of the day. This Motorpathic treatment restores the whole system to pristine health and vigor. These facts are indisputable. Ladies and physicians without number can be referred to who will vouch for their correctness. The Profession can have all the evidence they desire.

FLORENCE SEWING MACHINE CO.,

FLORENCE, MASS.,

MANUFACTURERS OF THE CELEBRATED

REVERSIBLE FEED

SEWING MACHINES.

The following are some of the advantages possessed by the FLORENCE over other Machines :

The feed may be reversed at any point desired without stopping the Machine.

It sews light and heavy fabrics with equal facility.

The work will run either to the right or left. It runs quietly and sews rapidly. It has no springs to get out of order. It has the most practical hemmer in use. It turns wide and narrow hems, and will fell beautifully.

There is no danger of oiling dresses, the entire machinery being on the top of the table.

The needle is more readily adjusted than in any other machine. There is no difficulty experienced in sewing across thick seams. It is adapted to a larger range of work than any other.

It has a self adjusting shuttle tension. The amount of tension always being in exact proportion to the size of the bobbin.

The taking up of the slack thread is not performed by the irregular contraction of a wire coil, or uncertain operation of wire levers. The precision and accuracy with which the Florence draws the thread into the cloth, is unapproached in any Sewing Machine hitherto offered in the market.

Read what is said of it by some who have thoroughly tested its qualities.

Derry, N. H., May 30th, '67.

Florence Sewing Machine Co.

Two years ago I purchased a Florence Sewing Machine for the use of my family. It has never been out of order since, and works to our perfect satisfaction. I have examined many others, and think this preferable to any I have ever seen. I should not be willing to exchange it for any other Machine that I have ever examined.

Yours, &c.,

G. C. BARTLETT.

Oswego, New York, June 7th, '67.

Florence Sewing Machine Co.

We have for some months past been using one of your Machines with entire satisfaction, having previously used two different kinds. We have thoroughly tested it on various kinds of Cotton, Silk and other fabrics, and we believe that for ease and accuracy of motion, simplicity of construction, for variety, strength and excellence of the stitch, it has no superior, and probably combines more desirable qualities than any other Machine.

E. W. WARNER.

Lancaster, Ohio, June 1st, '67.

Agent Florence Sewing Machine Co.

I have been using a Florence Machine in my family for more than four years, and am better pleased with it every day. It gives no trouble, never gets out of order, is simple in construction and easily managed.

GREENFIELD, MASS., is one of the many thriving towns in the river valley, situated 36 miles north of Springfield, about one mile west of the Connecticut, and is located on high ground which commands fine views of the surrounding country.

Greenfield is the shire town of Franklin County, and is the centre of a large agricultural community, and contains about 3800 inhabitants.

The Green River, which flows through the lower part of the town, furnishes power for considerable manufacturing of cutlery and machinery of different kinds. Here is the junction of the Conn. River, Vermont and Mass., and the to be Hoosac Tunnel Railroads.

BRATTLEBORO, Windham County, Vermont, is situated on the right bank of the Connecticut river, and distant from New York 194 miles; Hartford, Conn., 84; Springfield, Mass., 60; Montreal, 250 miles. For business it is one of the principal towns in the river valley, there being a large amount of manufacturing carried on, principally Organs, Melodeons, Furniture, Woolen and Silk. Whetstone Brook which flows through the south part of the town furnishes the water power. Situated on an uneven surface with hills and mountains in all directions, the scenery is grand and beautiful. Population about 4500.

Across the Connecticut to the east are Wantastiquet and Mine Mountains, the former rising from the river to the height of nearly 1100 feet.

The Vermont Asylum for the Insane is located here, and is one of the best conducted Institutions of the kind in the country. Many distinguished people make Brattleboro their summer resort, and truly there is no pleasanter place or more charming drives, or finer fishing grounds, or grand and picturesque scenery to be found anywhere. The town is well supplied with good Hotels, Water Cures and summer boarding houses.

The Record and Farmer, the principal paper of Windham County, published in Brattleboro, and edited by Ed. P. Ackerman, is a large eight page sheet, full of original matter, and one of the most lively and enterprising newspapers in New England. The attention of the reader is called to the advertisment on inside Back Cover.

The Cottage Organ Manufactory of Mess. J. Estey & Company, located on South Main and Bridge Streets, and also on Flat street, comprising many buildings, is one of the most perfect and extensive of the kind in the world.

The most improved and perfected machinery known to modern times has been introduced, presenting one of the grandest displays of American genius anywhere to be found. The Cottage Organ contains the following great and important improvements which are patented and consequently found in no other instruments. The Patent Harmonic Attachment, which doubles the power of the instrument without increasing its size or number of reeds. Also, the Patent Manual sub-bass, which brings into use an independent set of large and powerful sub-bass reeds, which are played with the ordinary keys and controlled by a stop. Also the Patent Box Humana Tremolo.

WALPOLE, Cheshire County, New Hampshire, (formerly called Great Falls, or Bellows Town,) incorporated February 13th, 1752, contains a population of some 2000 people. Walpole township includes the village of Drewsville, and is chiefly a farming community. It is located some 20 miles north of Brattleboro, and 4 miles south of Bellows Falls. A bridge crosses the Connecticut at this place. Walpole is one of the neatest and prettiest villages in the Connecticut Valley. Its streets are wide and the dwellings are large and elegant, and many fine residences may be seen in the town, which has become of late years quite a place of resort during the summer.

The Cheshire Railroad passes through this town, and about one mile distant is Walpole Station, on the Vermont Valley Railroad.

KIMBALL'S
IMPROVED HORSE RAKE,

PATENTED DECEMBER 20, 1864.

Here is an article that justly claims the attention of every man who has hay to make. The Rake being in front of the Wheel, is within sight of the driver, and he can manage it at pleasure to suit the uneven surface of the ground. No other Rake can have any such contrivance.

The driver on this Rake has the advantage of working it with his feet or hands, as he may choose. It is so simple and so securely made that it is not liable to get out of order; and the low price at which it is sold will enable every farmer to buy it. Try one, by all means.

REFERENCE TO EVERY PERSON WHO HAS USED THIS RAKE.

SOAPSTONE STOVES,

MANUFACTURED BY THE

FRANCESTOWN SOAPSTONE COMPANY,

NASHUA, N. H.

Soapstone Stoves

Are no longer a novelty, and the high estimate entertained of their very great merit over those made of iron, by all who have used them, together with the rapidity with which they are now coming into general use, obviates all occasion for any recommendations.

Their decided advantages, especially when considered in a SANITARY, ECONOMICAL and ORNAMENTAL point of view, are facts too well established to admit of question; and are rapidly securing the public appreciation.

The company are manufacturing for the present season 8,000 Stoves, embracing a which for elegance of design and perfection of finish, as well as in point of utility, excel any Stoves yet put upon the market.

To those familiar with the different qualities of Soapstone, it will be unnecessary to say that the Francestown quarry furnishes the only stone susceptible of a high degree of polish, or to speak of its superiority as a fire stone.

The Company are constantly prepared to fill orders for SLABS of any thickness, REGISTER FRAMES, GRIDDLES, ROUND GRATE STONES, FOOT WARMERS, HAND STONES, FUNNEL STONES, CHIMNEY CAPS, SOAPSTONE DUST, &c. &c.

THE HOWE

Sewing Machines!

ESTABLISHED 1848.

IMPROVED, 1860, '62, '64, '66.

THIS long-established and popular Machine has recently been re-modeled, enlarged, improved in many respects, and as at present constructed has no superior as a first-class instrument for family sewing or general manufacturing, either in cloth or leather, and is now offered to the public on terms more liberal than heretofore.

It has been the inventor's aim to produce a single machine so simple in its mechanism as to come within the comprehension of every one, and at the same time being so delicate in its operation as to perform perfectly on the lightest fabrics; still having strength sufficient for making any or every garment worn by male or female, and that he has succeeded to the fullest extent is amply testified to in the rapidly increasing sales and popularity of the Machine wherever introduced. It uses a short, straight and shank needle, with direct perpendicular action—has a large shuttle holding abundant thread—makes the Elastic Lock-Stitch, alike on both sides—uses a strong tension and draws up a tight seam without breaking threads—has an adjustable head to prevent the missing of stitches—has a needle guard to prevent the breaking of needles—has the four motion drop feed, or the wheel feed, at the option of the purchaser—runs rapid, light and smooth—in fact it possesses every requisite for a first-class Machine, and purchasers can be assured of its giving entire satisfaction in every department of application.

Agents wanted throughout the United States, and to whom unusually liberal inducements will be offered. All agents can be supplied direct from this office. Send for Circular, and address,

A. B. HOWE, 437 Broadway, N. Y.,

ELLIPTIC

Highest Premium, Lock-stitch

SEWING MACHINES.

The Great Family Sewing Machine of the Age.

543 BROADWAY, N. Y.

SEE NEXT PAGE.

Volute Tension, Crystal Presser,

Adjustable Drop Feed, Elliptic Hook.

THE improved Elliptic Sewing Machine, (formerly known as the Sloat Elliptic,) is now owned by one of the strongest companies in the United States, with a capital of ONE MILLION dollars, which, employing the finest machinery in the world in its manufacture, and owning the latest patented improvements, confidently presents the ELLIPTIC as INCOMPARABLY the most perfect family sewing machine ever made.

Believing that a thorough investigation (which we particularly desire) can not fail to satisfy every one of the entire truthfulness of our assertions, and of the preëminent superiority of our machine, we cordially invite all who may wish to see a Perfect Family Sewing Machine, (whether desiring to purchase or not,) to call at our establishment in this city, or at any of our agencies throughout the country, and examine it for themselves.

The Elliptic Machine, (which is the strongest and most durable in use,) while eminently adapted to the wants of the dress-maker, seamstress, tailor, or manufacturer of shirts, collars, mantillas, cloaks, corsets, clothing, ladies' gaiters, linen and silk goods, etc., etc., (for all of which purposes it is unequaled, performing with ease and perfection the work of a dozen hand-sewers, or almost any other two machines,) is incomparably superior to all others for the use of the family, and now stands "par excellence," and by the common consent of all who have seen it, as the great Family Sewing Machine of the age, having established itself, wherever adopted, as the great and exclusive favorite, especially with the ladies, to whose invariable recommendations the great success of the machine, as a family machine, is in a great measure due.

PERFECTION OF MECHANISM.

The following is a condensed synopsis of the chief desiderata which, combined only in this machine, render it incomparably superior to all others:

1. Pre-eminent Beauty and Elasticity of Stitch, alike on both sides of the fabric sewed.
2. Unequaled Strength and Durability of Seam, that will not rip nor ravel.
3. Great Economy of Thread, costing less than one half as much as most other machines.
4. Unexampled Rapidity of Movement, making from 1000 to 2000 stitches per minute.
5. Remarkable Ease of Operation and Management; a child ten years old can use it without difficulty
6. Noiselessness of Movement; it can be used where quiet is necessary.
7. Its many Improvements and Attachments, and consequent unequaled range of work.
8. Its wonderful Simplicity of Construction and Mechanical Perfection, rendering derangement almost impossible.
9. Compactness and Elegance of Model and Finish, rendering it a real ornament for the parlor.
10. An adjustable Feed-Bar, readily adapting it to material of any class or thickness.
11. The Elliptic Hook, a most ingenious device for making the lock-stitch with unequaled precision.
12. It will Seam, Hem, Fell, Tuck, Gather, Braid, Bind, Cord, Quilt and Embroider with unequaled perfection.

In the above, and all other requisites of a Perfect Sewing Machine, it stands unrivaled and unapproachable.

The Elliptic is now in use by A. T. Stewart & Co., I. E. Walraven, O'Sullivan & Grey, James Cox, and other of the best houses in New York.

Report of Committee on Sewing Machines, at N. Y. State Fair, 1866.—"We, the Committee on Sewing Machines, after a careful and thorough investigation into the respective merits of the various machines submitted for examination, find the Elliptic Lock-Stitch Sewing Machine to be superior to all others."

From the Reports of the Maryland Institute Fair, 1866.—"We find the Elliptic Lock Stitch Sewing Machine to excel all others."
